

ICE CREAM IN A HAT Yum. What a thought. Let's take an article of clothing that guys sweat in, that's filled with perspiration, hair gel and perhaps the occasional dandruff flake... and fill it with soft-serve ice cream. Who wouldn't want to dig into that. In an effort to be cute and in an effort to appeal to the kid in all of us, the concessions people have gone mad. Mad I tell you. What's next, hot dogs in a sock? We think hats belong on heads, ice cream belongs in bowls, and hot dogs belong in buns. However, since there seems to be a market for chocolate in a chapeau, who are we to say no. So it's only two bucks at the stadium and who doesn't look good wearing vanilla?

Tickets for games including season ticket packages are available at greenvilledrive.com.

